BACHELOR OF PROFESSIONAL STUDIES IN INTERDISCIPLINARY MUSIC STUDIES (CREATE YOUR OWN MAJOR)

Overview

The music industry is undergoing enormous change, and as a result, musicians increasingly need knowledge of, and skills in, a number of different areas in order to succeed in their career. The Interdisciplinary Music Studies major provides students with considerable flexibility in choosing coursework across a number of disciplines to align with your personal career goals. With the help of an Academic Advisor, you will create a personalized education plan, which includes three courses of your choosing in both music business and technology (two critical areas driving change in the music industry), in addition to a series of core music and liberal arts courses. You will then choose additional courses in music production, composition, arranging, songwriting, performance, or other areas to strengthen your skill set specific to the career you are seeking. The program culminates with a capstone experience in which you will complete an in-depth project that demonstrates your readiness for professional work or advancement in the music industry.

Graduates of this Program will:

- Analyze the structure of the music industry and opportunities for creating new business models amidst change
- Evaluate new music technologies as they relate to the principles and practices of creating, distributing, and promoting music
- Synthesize acquired knowledge into an intellectual frame of reference in your chosen area of concentration
- Evaluate quality using both musical and technical criteria, and apply those criteria to your own work and to that of others
- Lead a creative project from conception to execution demonstrating mastery in your chosen area of concentration
- Develop a career advancement plan that articulates clear steps for securing and maintaining professional work in the music industry

Curriculum (120 Credits)

21 Required and Specified Elective Courses (63 Credits)

- 3 Music Business courses with at least one course at the 300 level or above
- 3 Music Production courses
- 14 additional courses in Music Business, Music Production, Composition, Guitar, Bass, Piano, Voice, Drums, Arranging, or Songwriting that align with your individual education plan. At least 7 of those courses must be at the 300 level or above
- Interdisciplinary Music Studies Capstone

In Addition to:

- 5 Core Music Studies Courses (15 Credits)
- 14 General Education Courses (42 Credits)

“I think the most valuable aspect of an online bachelor’s degree from Berklee is the experience itself. You have this incredible opportunity to access faculty who are passionate about your education and the development of contemporary music, and who continue to make strong influences on the industry.”

- J.R. Mina,
Berklee Online Music Business and
Music Production dual major
