PROGRAM OUTLINE

As Eastern medicine practitioners increasingly move into a more integrated healthcare system, it is important for FACE specialists to:

- Be rooted in their Eastern medicine area of expertise
- Be knowledgeable about Western alternatives
- Be able to speak the language of both Eastern and Western concepts as they apply to FACE
- Be able to interface with other practitioners (East/West)
- Learn to integrate Eastern medicine treatments with Western medicine knowledge

In keeping with today's focus on integrative healthcare, the FACE program incorporates functional medicine concepts as they apply to aging, facial changes, facial aesthetics, and aging concerns.

Semester 1 – FACE THEORY & CLINIC

- 136.5 hours:
 - 60 didactic hours January-April 2024 (Wednesdays 9am-1pm Pacific Time)
 - 12.5 hours of assignments (5 of which will be post-clinical)
 - 5 days (40 hours) of live hands-on mentorship and clinical training:
 - April 6-10, 2024 at the San Diego campus
 - OR April 13-17, 2024 at the New York campus

Semester 2 – FACE CASE STUDIES & PRESENTATIONS

COURSE TOPICS INCLUDE

- Anatomy, physiology, and morphology of the face (East & West)
- Facial diagnosis (East and West)
- Chinese medicine acupuncture strategies and points for cosmetic facial acupuncture
- Treatment strategies and protocols for menopause and post-menopause
- Motor points for neurological disorders, TMD, and idiopathic disorders of the face
- Pathophysiology and treatment of skin and skin disorders (East and West)
- Epigenetics, DNA methylation, and bioaging
- Science-based dietary changes to improve skin conditions and signs of aging
- Beauty herbs, nutrition, and supplementation
- Ancillary services for enhancing treatment results and building business revenue
